St. Stephen's Church-Laying of the Corner The corner stone of this church, situate in Twenty

The corner stone of this couron, attuate in twentyeighth street, between Lexington and Third avenues, of which the Rev. Dr. Cummings is pastor, was laid yesterday afternoon, at five o'clock, by Archbishop Hughes.
The torrents of rain which descended during the ceremony, did not appear in the least to damp the cathuslasm ry, did not appear in the least to damp the eathuslasm of the spectators, who, on a moderate computation, must have exceeded three thousand. At the hour appointed, Archbishop Hughes, accompanied by Bishop O'Connor, of Pittaburg, Pennsylvania, and other reverend gentiemen by dint of the efforts of the policemen on duty, scrambled open the scaffold and donned their clerical attire, when Mr. Jantr and his brother choristers chaunted the following hymns:—"Ecce Sacerdus Magnus," the 85th Psalm, "Quam dilectarabernacula tua Domine virtutem," and "Concupleat et deficit anims mea in atria Domini." At this juncture the procession was formed, and, with the Archbishop leading it, proceeded from the platform to the corner stone, situate at the end of the building.

Archbishop leading it, proceeded from the platform to the corner stone, situate at the end of the building.

After the laying of the stone had been completed, and the various prayers and hymns appropriate to the occasion said and sung, the procession returned to the plat form, when the Rev. Dr. Cummings delivered the follow-

Psaim, commencing at the ninth to the twelfth verse:—

As we have heard so have we seen in the city of the Lord of Hoets, in the city of our God, God hath founded it for ve have received thy mercy, O God, in the midst of thy

We have received in more of God, so also is thy praise unto According to thy name. O God, so also is thy praise unto the ends of the earth; thy right hand is full of justice. Let Mount Zion rejoice, and the daughters of Judes be glad. Jecause of thy judgments.

These beautiful words, dearly beloved in Christ, clothe with fitting utterance our thoughts and feelings of joy on this auspicious day. At the same time the inspired song of the royal Psalmist shows good cause and gives fair reason for our rejoicing. We have heard of mercies vonchasted to our brethren in the faith, and we have drawn courage and strength from the pleasing tidings. vonchasied to sour brethren in the faith, and we have drawn courage and strength from the pleasing tidings. But now, we, ourselves, humble and unworthy as we are, behold the fruits of mercy brought to our own threshold, and who shall gainsay us, if, lifting up heart and voice we bless the Lord of Hosts. We give praise to Him for this new proof that in accordance with his pledged word he abiacth in his holy temple, and keepeth the city which he hath founded forever. The solemn and mysterious rites of the time honored Litungy which were performed to hallow the lofty minsters in which our fathers worshipped ages ago, are now performed in our midst to bless the foundations of this our humbler, but not less hely temple. The same sacerdotal invocation, and choral response, whose melody thrilled the heart and entirened the faith of ancient assemblies has just died away from our ears. We love the dignified cadence of that antique, plain song, although charted indeed in an "unknown tongue." Yes, we take pride in that majestic Latin service, every part of which we understand, although the sound be no longer familiar to our hearths and homes. It is not our tongue, but we love it because it was the tongue of our Mother when sue was young, and she has never yet torgotten it, because she has never yet grown old. We see a new groof of the mercies we have heard of in the presence of the venerated shepherd of our souls whom the Holy Ghost hath placed as a bishop to rule the Church of God and to be a judge of the faith among us. The blessing bestowed upon us by Him gives new strength to our faith, and adds wings to our hope, because we know our Saviour blesses us with the sacerdotal hand. We rejoice to see him near us, clad with the robes of his sacred office, and the insignia of his seatled dignity.

office, and the insignia of his exalted dignity. Venesated emblems, which modern men look at with purzled satesishment, but which announce the presence of an authority older and holier than that of empires, kings, and commonwealths—in whose presence Prince and Cesar, Consul and Tribune, Baron and Chief, have bowed with filial reverence, or cowered with no idle fear. There is one God, one Faith, and one Baptism, one shepherd, and one fold, to which we have clung with tender affection through good and evil report. This day we are not called upon to suffer for that cherished faith in which our forefathers lived and died. But we are gathered together to see a spot consecrated and a stone set up, like that of Jacob, for a title, marking the place where one tent more shall be pitched in the camp of the children of Iarael—where one more altar shall be builded in honor of the Lord of Hosts. "As we have heard so have we seen in the city of the Lord of Hosts, in the city of our God, God hath founded it for ever. We have received thy nerry, O Lord, in the midst of thy temple." But a few years ago, and the spot upon which we stand was shaded by the foliage of the primeval forest. From this ground, now surrounded on the north, and on the south, and on the wost, by the splendid dwellings of merchant princes, curled upward, through turfed tree tops, the white smoke from the watch fire of the Indian hunteman, But the war song of the savage tribe and the sullen shence of the wilderness of trees have alike passed away. Thoursand, dwell nigh at hand who shall worship within these walls. Some are born on the soil, youthful citizens of a youthful country, while the birthpiaces of as one lie beyond the farthest wave of the road and fathomiess ocean. In the Church none will feel himself a stranger, it is the common home of all the piligrim from afar off who may kneel here in time will detect no change in the well known service—the same is which he joned under the sunny sky of Italy, or the gray canopy of his colder northern home. In liness of life, and the happiness of a virtuous career here below be crowned with endless glory hereafter.

DESCRIPTION OF THE CHURCH.

Style of architecture, Byzantine or Norman Gothic.

The church which is the third in size of the Catholic churches in the city, being only surpassed by the Catholic churches in the city, being only surpassed by the Catholic church in Third street, is situated on the North side of Twenty-eighth street, 120 feet from the Third avenue.

2. The width of the church is 75 feet, and its length 140 feet, and will seat comfortably 1,600 persons. There is also standing room for 400 or 200 in the side chapel, and around the altar. Architect, Mr. James Renwick. The facade on twenty eighth street is to be of cut free-stone, 75 feet wide and 85 feet high, with seven richly organisemented porches, traceried windows, pinnacles, and fretted monditings. A broad light of steps seven feet high will be carried across the front of the building. The interior is to be divided by columns and arches into three aicles, with galleries in the said-aicles. The ceilings will be grained, and with ribs up the day and rich foliage bosses. The north end will be fait and shall be said-aicles. The cillings will be grained, and with ribs up the sanctuary, which will be raised nine steps above the floor of the building. The high sitar will be of marble, richly carved, and the screen above the altar will fise to a height, with columns, traceries, pinnacles, and statues. The windows which light the church will have rich stained glass borders with enamelled centres. CHAUNCHY LARKIN, THE SWINDLER, AND HIS EAST-EN PRIENDS.

Testerday Justice Welah was called upon by a gentleman from Worcester, Massachusetts, who came to New York purposely to see the swindler chauncey Larkin aftics Col. Fillmore, of Washington. The gentleman stated to the magistrate, that having seen by the New York papers that an individual calling himself Colonel Fillmore had been arrested by the police, and as the description of the person corresponded exactly to the person who a short time since visited Worcester, and ob tained one hundred dollars on a fictitious check, the magistrate caused Larkin to be shown, and at once the gentleman identified him as the same person. The circumstances under which Larkin obtained the money was related as follows:—He said that Larkin called at the firearm factory situated in Worcester, and represented to the proprietor that he was the son of David Sears, of Baston, who is well known to be a man of wealth, and that he (Larkin) was a lieutenant in the navy, at Boston; that he was authorized to order for the government service three hundred pistols of a particular kind, (selected by Larkin,) of which only one hundred were in readiness. On the following day Larkin watched the clerk of the factory into one of the banks, and followed in immediately after. He then made himself known, and exhibited a check drawn on the Suffolk Bank, Boston, for $100, which he intimated he wanted cashed for immediate use No one in the bank knowing Larkin, of course they refused to cash the check. The clerk, however, knowing that Larkin had given an order at their factory, and believing him to be Lieutenant Sears, invited him to accompany him to be Lieutenant Sears, invited him to accompany him to be Lieutenant Sears, invited him to accompany him to be Lieutenant Sears, invited him to accompany him to be clerk the seed the assumed Lieutenant Sears to go and see the hotel keeper where he was putting up, and if he said it was all right, he would got him the money.

Jersey City News.

The Common Council "Prediction."—The grand inquest in and for the county of Hudson have had under consideration serious complaints of frauds and irregularities, practiced by officers and employees of the Common Council of Jersey City, in the mode of making assessments against property holders for city improvements, and do find that assessment lists have been altered or amended after they were duly filed for examination, &c., but are unable to find a bill against any particular officer-surveyors, contractors, agents and others, being implicated. Had the cases presented been free from doubt as to the motives of the parties guilty of the maipractices named, the grand jury would have placed the offenders within the reach of adequate punishment. The subject, probably, will be further investigated.

CRCUIT COURT—The court disposed of all the civil business last week, and this morning will take up the criminal. The grand jury have found twenty indictments, one of which is for intentional murder, another for grand larceny, two for adultery, and the remainder for inferior offences.

Incidents in Political Life.

Mr. Henry Shaw of this city, made the following entortaining speech in the Assembly, a few days since, giving his own political history and experience:

In reply to some remarks which had fallen from Mr. D. B. Taylor, he said that in politics he had been everything He had been a member of every party he had ever heard of. (Laughter.) He was at this time a member of the democratic party—of that faction known as "hunker"—a moderate one—rather softly. (Renewed laughter.) Be fore the time of Andrew Jackson he had been a democrat. But when he was talked of as a candidate for the Presidency, and Crawford was mentioned too, he (Mr. S.) became a Clay man. He remained a Clay man during the whole of that despotic democratic rule, and the one that followed. He clung fast to Mr. Clay as long as there was any hops of our placing him in the presidential chair, and was present at the Harrisburg Convention that witnessed his (Mr. C.'s) political death. And a sorry death it was too! After that he left the party, and again sailed under the democratic banner. He had been a democrat, and left them when opposition to the old United States Bank was made a test of the party. He had been a democrat when, on the other hand, they were the advocates of such a measure; and he expected to find them returning to it again some day! (shouts of laughter.) He had been always consistent: (Laughter.) He had made it apoint to belong to all parties in turn! (Renewed laughter.) He was just now a democrat, but how long he should remain so, was quite uncertain! It depended on the course pursued by Mr. Pierce—a man who had been elected President lately! (Laughter.)

Same democrat, with a jovial spirit and a sharp sense of the ridiculous, writes from Wa-hington to the Newboryport Union. He laughs at the endless crowd of office-hunters, gives a graphic description of the army of hungry customers who haunt the Attorney General's office, and narmate the following incidents:—

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY-The Detroit Advertises

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY—The Detroit Advertiser has an account of a terrible tragedy which occurred at Decatur, Michigan. Simon O. Keeler, in a fit of drunkenness, murdered his wife and killed himself. Mr. Keeler was the son of Judge Woolcut Keeler, and both he and his wife were educated and intelligent persons.

On Friday, March 25th, Judge Keeler went from his residence, to be gone until Sunday the 27th, leaving his son and wife, the only persons at home. For about three weeks previous to that day, Simon O. Keeler had been constantly indulging to excess in the use of liquor, so much so that his appetite for food had forsaken him.

Before leaving home, Judge Keeler, between whom and his son and wife the strongest affection subsisted, took occasion to admenish his son that his drinking, if persevered in, would soon lead him to a drunkard's grave. Judge Keeler exhorted him to put his foot down and pro mise that he would not drink another drop of liquor until the first of January, 1854, promising him, in case he would so promise—and knowing from his character that if he to promised he would be form—to give him the free use of the farm, which is well stocked, with a span of horses, wagon and harnass, two yeke of working oxen, twenty-five hoge, cows, sheep, &c., and with all necessary farming utensils and to make him a present, besides, of bay, provisions, &c., amounting in all to about $500. The son admitted that he was killing himself with liquor, but evaded making the promise desired by his father, and saying—Well, father, I will think it over, and when you come home we will make it all right." These were the last words ever spoken between them.

Judge Keeler departed upon his business, and the awful tragedy which followed was not witnessed by mortal eye, so far as is known. On Sunday afternoon, Judge Keeler departed upon his business, and the awful tragedy which followed was not witnessed by mortal eye, so far as is known. On Sunday afternoon, Judge keeler departed upon his business, and the awful tragedy which follo door, he discovered the body of his son, stiff in death, but distorted and convolued, as though he dragged himself in the agony of dying from the side of his wife, to the bed which they usually occupied, and had there ded in extreme torture. Upon searching for the cause of his death, the father found that a large piece had been shaved off from a lump of opium, and to this agent he attributed the death of his son.

DEATH OF SENOR GLANJA—A private letter announces the death, at Orizava. Mexico, of Senor Don Juan de la Granja, President of the telegraphic operations in that republic. He died after a few days illness, aged sixty five years. Senor Granja was formerly editor of the Noticoro des Ambos Mundos, a Spanish paper, published in this city.

JAMES MCALLASTER, Esq., Superintendent of Public Buildings in Boston, and iormerly a member of the Common Council, died on the 14th inst., after a sickness of about three weeks.

MRR ROBERT G. SHAW, the last surviving child of Samuel Parkman, Esq., died at Boston on the 14th inst.

HON. ROBERT BAIDWIN SULLIVAN, Justice of the Court of Common Pleas of Upper Canada, died in Toronto on the 14th inst.

Co. JOHN RUSSELI, an old and much respected citizen of Salem, Mass., died in that city, on the 12th inst., sged seventy four years. Mr Russell was formerly a journeyman printer on the Columbian Centine!

We take from the Terente Leader the following compilation from a return secently published by the government printer at Quebec. It will be found highly interesting:

The number of woollen manufactories is 87, of which 63 made no return. The 34 that did make returns have an aggregate capital of £54,000, employ £24 men, and produce $03,200 yards of fabrit, besides £25,225, which is stated not in yards. What may be the capital or product of those which have neglected to make returns we are left to guess; but it is scarcely an extravagant estimate to set down £150,000 as the capital employed in woollen factories. Of the possible aggregate product it is almost impossible to make any estimate at all. There are eight cloth factories, with a united capital of £15,000, employing 116 men, and producing 103,000 yards of cloth, besides a value stated in money at £2,000.

The number of fulling and carding, but chiefly fulling mills, is 207, of whom 108 only make returns. The united capital of the latter is £32,248; they employ 310 men, and produce 308,710 yards of cloth, besides a value stated in money at £9,060. Their consumption of wool is 798,850 pounds. Probably not less than £00,000 is invested in this description of manufacture, and the consumption of weol can scarcely be less than 1,500,000 pounds. The tanneries figure up to 262, et which 162 only make returns. Of the latter, the aggregate capital is £52,808, employing 738 men, tanning 169,800 hides, and producing £71,756. The capital employed in this branch of manufacture cannot be less than £100,000. The foundries number 94, but of these only 29, less than a third, make returns. The aggregate capital of these is £76,650, and consuming 380 tons of iron.

There are oat meal mills proper, besides a good many connected with grist mills not counted 40, from 15 of which returns have been received. Of these the capital is £3,358; they employ 68 men, and produce 14,969 bbls. Be it known to the Temperance Societies, Sons and Baughter, that there are 117 distilleries in Uppe

2,010 fanning mills. There are four potteries, one earthenware factory, and several other descriptions of manufacture of no great note.

GOVERNMENT SALE OF MUSKETS—ARMS FOR LIBERIA—A government sale of muskets, and other millitary requisites, took place yesterday morning, at the marine barracks. The articles were arranged on the parade ground to the beat advantage, and within a sweep of the eye could be seen piles of white undress suits of clothing, blue jackets and pants, caps, and more imposing uniforms; several dozens of swords, resting quietly in their scabbards; boxes of brass ornaments, and panwipers; nests of leather belting; pyramids of cartridge and percussion cap boxes; twenty or more drum bodies, some of them bereft of the sheep skin, others with merely a big hole in the head, with several of them in good condition, can still cause a noise in the world. Spread over the earth were upwards of five thousand fint muskets, in lots of twenty five. All the marines were there, in undress, sot a few as bidders; and from the extensive exhibition of military implements, it seemed that Uncle Sam was about to break up his war establishment, and begin the millenium. A merchant of New York, engaged in the sale of military goods, made large purchases of muskets; and he and a gentleman connected with the American Colonization Society, were nearly the exclusive successful bidders. The prices ranged, for each gun, from eighty-two and a half cents to one dollar and eighty cents. Fifteen hundred of those muskets will hereafter enter into the defensive operations of the republic of Liberia, together with the swords to which we have already referred; and the clothing and equipments in tended for marines will adorn probably the land force of the African sovereigns. Eight iron six and twelve pounders were purchased by the New York merchants, at eight dollars each, and the balls were sold to other parties at eight cents a piece.—Washington Republic, April 13.
